

New Alton premises for cfes facilitates continued growth

cfes Ltd, the award winning national M&E and specialist construction provider, has announced the relocation of its headquarters to Alton to support the success of its growing and developing business.

As a continually expanding company cfes is proud to have moved into modern corporate premises to facilitate the future growth of the company. However, with a 14-year history in Alton and the surrounding area cfes has not forgotten its roots and has secured a large office at Hamlet House in Alton High Street.

cfes have kept their northern office in Oldham, which facilitates their national service provision. They have incorporated their regional Thatcham office, into the new Alton facility. Consolidating the locations has enabled the centralisation of key operations, which will enable the continual growth in a well managed and structured way.

The modern offices complement a company that offers the latest technology in its air conditioning, M&E and healthcare developments. The company serves the commercial, healthcare, retail and high level residential sectors, as well as Government bodies, large property portfolio holders and many of the world's most distinguished hotel chains.

This re-structuring has been cemented with the recent appointment of Kevin Nuttall as general manager. Kevin has a wealth of experience within the industry and will bring a great deal of valuable management knowledge and skills to the company. Kevin's role will cover a variety of disciplines to ensure growth and productivity throughout the company.

As a local company, cfes is looking to support the success of local business by offering its expertise in all air conditioning and service and maintenance requirements by offering to carry out a free appraisal of air conditioning systems.

Caroline Fleming, director of cfes Ltd, said: "cfes is proud to move into our new office which represents our modern, forward-thinking approach. The larger premises in Alton launches a new chapter in cfes' 25-year history and demonstrates the company's commitment to the local area as well as underlining our plans for continued expansion as a company."

cfes has recently been recognised by the construction industry's highest accolade at the Offsite Construction Awards. They were selected from the final six to win the inaugural 'Best Small Scheme' with its turnkey package to develop Cardinal House's existing rooftop in Mayfair, London, into an exclusive penthouse apartment.
